Picture books for everyone

Hope prevails! Now that we have stepped into the storms and came out wiser and stronger, it's time to reflect on our experiences. Our new titles are not directly about the pandemic, but looking back at what we have learned during this time.

Talking about the experience of lockdown, Pippa Goodhart says that time had stopped for many of us. "Oddly, we found ourselves experiencing a kind of freedom within that lockdown. We were 'given' time. In that time, we noticed our surroundings... We saw beauty and interest that had been there all along, previously unnoticed. We noticed ourselves, and others too. We noticed our world, and maybe our priorities changed for the better.

Life has sped up once more, but I wanted to capture something of that stopping of time before it gets forgotten."

Elizabeth Laird's story is about a little girl who finds freedom from the confinement of her home by inventing a game. She looks outside the window and "...as she talks to the creatures she sees and gives them names, she begins to feel that they are her friends, and that with them she can find a kind of freedom."

Alan Durant's story of Human Town was inspired by seeing the critical situation of the elephants and the possibility of their extinction, long before the pandemic. But spending the days in lockdown pressed the question of why is this happening? Where are we going wrong?

Hope you enjoy our 2022 titles.

Stop the Clock!

Pippa Goodhart
Illustrated by Maria Christania

Joe's is late for school AGAIN! On their dash to beat the bell, Mum is stressed, Baby Poppy is crying, and Joe is missing all the exciting things happening around him as they blur into one. When given a task by his teacher to draw everything he saw on his way to school, Joe decides he must stop time to examine everything he saw and figure out why his sister was crying so much! Soon, literally, and metaphorically, things become much clearer, as Joe learns to appreciate the importance of taking your time and noticing what is happening around you.

Human Town

Alan Durant
Illustrated by Anna Doherty

Junior and his elephant family are excited to visit Human Town, where they can observe humans in their own town. The novelty soon wears thin, as they notice major issues humans have caused, which are causing them to become extinct. Junior hopes that this will never happen to the elephants.

Alan Durant

Alan Durant has written over one hundred books for children of all ages — from picture books to poetry to young adult thrillers. His picture books include the award-winning Burger Boy, Always and Forever and Dear Tooth Fairy. He regularly visits schools, libraries and festivals in the UK and abroad, giving talks and running writing workshops.

"The first time I visited the South Africa, I was taken on a sundown safari and saw a group of elephants up close, pulling up shrubs and munching and being quietly magnificent. I wondered what the elephants might think if they were observing us. There is a very real and appalling prospect that within the lifetimes of our children these amazing creatures will become extinct, unless we humans change our behaviour and look after our world more caringly. I hope this story will make children laugh but I also hope it will make them think – and be moved to act, because they are the world's hope. And good luck to them!"

Anna Doherty

Anna Doherty is an illustrator from sunny Scotland. She adores drawing, writing, and every single dog in the world. She owns too many pencils and she likes tiny sketchbooks. Outside of illustration, her main skills in life are rock, paper, scissors and swimming a long way under water without breathing. Her other books include Big Ideas for Curious Minds, Sticky, and The Brontës.

Hope in a Scary World

Rock and Roll

Hazel Terry

Rock and Roll are two boulders that are used to being alone together. However, when the people come and award them with gifts and adornments, they become jealous of each other. They become competitive over things they do not need and things that do not matter. Rock and Roll is a book that celebrates nature, the interconnectedness of our amazing world, whilst questioning the need for things and the narcissism, jealousy and selfishness that ownership promotes.

Bloom

Anne Booth

Illustrated by Robyn Wilson-Owen

There was once a beautiful flower and a little girl who talked to it every morning on her way to school. The owner of the flower shouted at her. The next day, the flower did not open. The angry man didn't understand. He tried watering it. He tried giving it shade and he tried talking to it. He told it how wonderful he was, how important his job was and how lonely he felt. But it still refused to open. So, he asked the little girl. "Why don't you tell it how wonderful it is and how much you love it?" she said. As he did so, his own heart filled with love. And the flower bloomed.

The perfect book for young children to talk about feelings, positive thinking and friendship.

Felix After the Rain

Dunja Jogan

Translated by Olivia Hellewell

Felix hides all of his sorrow inside a large black suitcase that he carries with him wherever he goes. One day, a small boy opens the suitcase whilst Felix is sleeping. Felix wakes and the tears that he had been carrying for so long suddenly pour from him. Felix is uplifted, free and his heart is full of joy. Felix embraces the world, and the world embraces him. A beautiful book about feelings of sadness and the power of friendship from Slovenian picture book creator Dunja Jogan.

One Story, Many Voices

Gloria's Porridge

Elizabeth Laird
Illustrated by Toby Newsome

Inspired by an Ethiopian folk tale, Gloria's Porridge shows young children how one act can cause a chain reaction and affect other people's lives. When Cat wanted some of Gloria's Porridge, he ignored her saying no and ate it all. Gloria then scares Cat who tickles the donkey, who interrupts the bees who then frighten the hen. It is up to the fox then to show the others the importance of not letting this setback slow them down. This re-imagined folk tale tackles difficult ideas like having to take responsibility and overcoming setbacks in a fun and simple manner, ideal for young readers.

Toby Newsome's colourful illustrations, inspired by his South African surroundings translates the story into a pan-African fusion.
